

WHERE IS MADERO? IS QUESTION ASKED IN MEXICO THIS MORNING

PRESIDENT OF MEXICAN REPUBLIC HAS DISAPPEARED AND CAN NOT BE LOCATED TODAY.

CAPITAL CITY IS QUIET

Diaz Holds Control of the Situation—Uprising Sunday Was Most Successful Thus Far.

Mexico City, Feb. 10.—The night passed quietly in Mexico City and seven o'clock today saw no resumption of the fighting which yesterday resulted in the supposed flight of President Madero and the success of General Felix Diaz, the rebel leader.

Diaz Remains Quiet

Diaz has made no new moves and the general situation today remains much as it was last night when the rebellious army practically seized the city after street fighting before the national palace, during which General Bernardo Reyes and some two hundred others were killed.

Where is Madero? Stories are rife that President Madero has fled, headed for some part on the east coast, while in other quarters it is believed he has acceded to the pre-emptory demand of Diaz voiced last night that he at once resign the presidency.

Remain Silent

Relatives of Madero refused this morning to divulge his whereabouts. Only a few troops came into the city during the night and the early hours of today and these showed little disposition to fight.

Sleepless Night

Uncertainty as to what developments would follow the revolt of the army by which Gen. Felix Diaz practically captured the Mexican capital yesterday prevailed in Mexico City early today. The residents of the city spent a quiet but sleepless night expecting to see more fighting in the streets today. In yesterday's revolt over 200 persons were killed.

Where is Madero?

The populace did not know early today whether President Madero had fled from the capital with a following of loyal troops said to number 1,000 men. He took refuge in the national palace yesterday, but it was reported at daybreak that under cover of night he had fled toward the eastern coast taking his family with him. It was also reported that all the members of his cabinet had resigned.

Given Credence

The report of his flight was given credence although it was without confirmation. His decision to flee from the capital, it was said in the report, was due to General Blanquet's refusal to stand by him. Gen. Blanquet arrived last night with a small portion of his forces supposed loyal to Madero, but he refused to fight against Gen. Felix Diaz. Since the arrival of Blanquet's force the bridges between the capital and Toluca have been burned.

Former Plans

It is recalled that during the Orozco rebellion Madero stated what course he would pursue if the national capital were captured. He said he would never surrender, but in case Mexico City was taken he would remain in the government palace as long as possible and then with whatever remained loyal he would transfer the seat of government to the hills in the south, where he would keep up the fight for constituted government.

City Riotless

The city apparently was not convulsed today that Madero would be able to return to the city with enough troops to wrest from Diaz and his numerous followers the power which they seized yesterday. If Madero remained in the national palace here or took refuge in the palace at Chapultepec it was generally assumed that the bombardment of these palaces would follow.

Up to Congress

There was considerable speculation today as to what action congress might take. It was regarded as probable that congress would demand the resignation of the Madero administration.

At Monclova

Monclova, Mex. Feb. 10.—A band of rebels reported marching on Monterey will, it is declared, demand the surrender of this city today. It is said here that little or no resistance will be offered.

PRESIDENT TAFT TO TAKE NO ACTION ON THE SITUATION NOW

Holds Cabinet Meeting This Morning—Navy is Ready to Act if Need Be—Uprising Not Unexpected.

Washington, Feb. 10.—President Taft and the cabinet today took up the Mexican situation. It was discussed at a special session of the cabinet called originally to consider a message to congress on the budget system. It was repeated that there was to be no intervention in Mexico during the remaining three weeks of President Taft's administration, but the general staff of the army had the Mexican mobilization plans ready and the navy was in readiness for any contingency.

It now developed that the administration was not completely surprised by the uprising in the city of Mexico yesterday. As far back as last fall when Felix Diaz began his unsuccessful attempt at revolution in Vera Cruz officials here fully expected that the Madero regime would soon end.

Secretary Knox, who entered the meeting, declared the state department had not received any fresh dispatches today. "We have nothing to act upon," he said.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The question to concern the cabinet meeting today was the precarious situation of Americans in the City of Mexico if Diaz or Madero could not guarantee protection for their lives or property. The principles of international law are understood to sanction intervention where there is no titular authority in a country able and willing to assume the duty of keeping down anarchy and preventing the pillage of the prosperity of foreign residents and the sacrifice of their lives.

If the United States were to interfere the first step would be taken by the navy. It would fall to Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, to dispatch some of the big battleships to Vera Cruz and land a force of marines and blue jackets.

Meanwhile the "expeditionary brigade of the army," which has been held under the leash for many months, will be held under orders to entrain and embark, precisely as it did several months ago, when the situation in Cuba appeared to require attention. This force, numbering in the aggregate about 15,000 men, would be dispatched in case of need from Newport News and New Orleans, converging on Vera Cruz, while of course there would be a concentration of troops on the northern border of Mexico, but officials are hopeful that no such order will be necessary. They look for a speedy settlement in Mexico by the complete victory of one side.

When the house met today, Representative Hamill of New Jersey introduced a joint resolution calling for protection of American interests in Mexico. The resolution follows: "Resolved, That to safeguard American lives and property now jeopardized by the present developments in Mexico, the secretary of state be and hereby is directed to instruct the American ambassador at Mexico City to notify the existing government of Mexico that it will be held strictly and immediately answerable to this government for any acts committed within its domain injurious to the persons and property of citizens of the United States of America."

Secretary Knox, at the end of today's cabinet meeting, said it has been decided to hold the cruiser Denver at Acapulco, Mexico, instead of sending her to Salvador. The secretary said nothing further had been decided upon.

One American is known to have been injured in yesterday's clash. American Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson at the first sign of trouble took prompt action to safeguard the lives of Americans and other foreigners. As head of the diplomatic corps in Mexico City he called all the foreign representatives into a conference at the American embassy and demanded from the Madero government specific assurance that adequate protection be extended to all foreigners.

JAPANESE PREMIER IS STONED BY MOB IN TOKIO STREETS

Prince Taro Katsura Attacked Immediately After Offering Resignation—Riots in City Streets.

Tokio, Feb. 10.—Prince Taro Katsura, premier and minister of foreign affairs of Japan, was stoned today by a mob in the streets. The attack on the premier came immediately after he had offered to the emperor his resignation and that of the other members of the cabinet. Several newspaper offices were also attacked by unruly crowds who attempted to set fire to the buildings. There were many riots in various parts of the city in the course of which a number of policemen and civilians were injured. Tense excitement prevailed throughout the capital and further conflicts between the police and the public are feared. Marquis Salenji, former premier and now leader of the constitutional party, was summoned to the palace by his majesty immediately after the receipt of Katsura's resignation. The cabinet's action is the result of the firm attitude in the diet of the constitutionalists and liberals who refused to follow the example of Salenji in withdrawal of the recent vote of lack of confidence in the government. The cabinet's only step to meet this opposition was an immediate dissolution of the diet, but the minister of marines Admiral Baron Boshu Saito refused to sign the recommendation and the resignation of the cabinet became imperative.

ATTEMPT TO TRACE LETTERS A FAILURE

Blumeling Testifies That All Archibald Letters in His Hands Were Made Public—New Inter-marriage Bill.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Efforts to trace unpublished letters which passed between John D. Archibald of the Standard Oil Company and members of the senate and house proved unsuccessful today when the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures interrogated Charles Blumeling of New York who is said to have sold the Archibald letters to the Hearst newspapers. Blumeling testified that so far as he knew all the letters which had been passed through his hands had been made public.

SURPRISED AT TURN IN WILL LITIGATION

Counsel For Son of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy Astounded On Learning Of Repudiated Agreement.

Boston, Feb. 10.—Former Attorney General Herbert Parker, Counsel for George W. Glover of Lead, South Dakota, in his attack upon the will of his mother, the late Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, expressed great surprise when he learned today of the report that Glover had repudiated the agreement by which the litigation was ended. On Friday proposed decrees in which the plaintiffs consented to the withdrawal of their suits were entered in the courts of Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

SUFFRAGISTS RAID SOCIETY DISTRICT

Window Smashing Campaign Carried Into London Clubland Region By Fanatical Women.

London, Feb. 10.—Militant suffragettes today raided the west end district known as Clubland. A number of women threw pieces of lead and hard fire clay balls through the windows of the Carlton, The Reform and other political and society clubs in Pall Mall. Several windows were broken also at the residence of Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, a relative of King George.

THREE NAMES TOO MANY FOR OUR NEXT PRESIDENT

New York, Feb. 10.—In view of Gov. Wilson's determination to be known simply as Woodrow Wilson, not as Thomas Woodrow Wilson, his baptismal name, the firm of stationers which had prefixed "Thomas" to his inauguration invitations was instructed by Secretary Tammany today to make a change.

PROMINENT MEN TO SPEAK AT SILK MENS BANQUET

New York, Feb. 10.—What promises to be one of the most notable functions of its kind in New York this winter will be the annual banquet of the Silk Association of America, for which preparations were completed today. The affair will be held tomorrow night at the Hotel Astor. Among the speakers and their topics will be the following: "Greetings from the New Republic," Hon. Chang Yin Tang, the Chinese minister at Washington; "Business and Government," Secretary Charles Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor; "The State of the Nation," Charles Curtis, United States senator from Kansas; "The New Type of Good Man," Rev. W. Warren Giles, of East Orange, N. J.

CAPTAIN SCOTT AND PARTY PERISH AFTER REACHING THE POLE

VESSEL WHICH CARRIED EXPLORER'S PARTY TO ANTARCTIC SIGNALS NEWS OF DISASTER TO NEW ZEALAND PORT.

BELIEVE FIFTY DEAD

English Party Which Reached South Pole One Month After Discovery by Amundson Overtaken by Blizzard—on Return.

Oamaru, New Zealand, Feb. 10.—Captain Robert F. Scott and his party were overwhelmed by a blizzard on their return journey from the south pole. The entire party perished. They reached the south pole on the 18th of January 1912. Captain Scott's party reached the exact point where Roald Amundson planted the Norwegian flag at the south pole. They found there the hut constructed and left behind by Amundson and his party. These facts were recorded in the documents found on the bodies of the dead explorers when they were recovered.

Think Fifty-Six Dead. The news of the appalling disaster which befell Captain Scott and his company was brought to this port by a signaled message from Terra Nova, the vessel which had carried the explorer and his expedition to the Antarctic and which late last year went once again to the south to bring him and his companions back.

The total number of deaths involved in the calamity is not known, but it is believed that fifty-six scientists and sailors lost their lives.

Sailed in June, 1910. London, Feb. 10.—The Terra Nova sailed on June 1, 1910 for New Zealand and the south pole. It was joined by Captain Robert F. Scott a few days later at Cardiff. The expedition consisted of twenty-eight officers and scientists in addition to a crew of twenty-three picked men from the British royal navy.

Reports were current at the Terra Nova sailed for the Antarctic on December 14, 1912, to bring back the Scott party that some of the members of the relief expedition had expressed grave doubts as to whether Captain Scott and his fellow explorers would ever return. No reason was given for these doubts, but they were freely bruited abroad.

Wife in New Zealand. Mrs. Scott left London five weeks ago for New Zealand to meet her husband there probably is not aware of her husband's fate.

The last direct word received from Captain Scott himself was brought by the commander of the Terra Nova from the southern ice regions when she returned to Akaroa, New Zealand on March 31, last year. The brief message was in Captain Scott's own handwriting and said: "I am remaining in the Antarctic for another winter in order to continue and complete my work."

Word in January. Captain Scott had shortly before sent back a report to his base at McMurdo Sound showing that on January 3, 1912, he had reached a point, 150 miles from the pole and was advancing toward his destination. The dispatch from Oamaru, New Zealand, this morning shows that in fifteen days he covered the remaining 150 miles, having traveled at the rate of ten miles a day.

It was on his return that his party was overwhelmed by one of the terrific blizzards so prevalent in the Antarctic region.

Month After Amundson. The date of Captain Scott's attainment of the south pole January 18, 1912, shows that he reached the goal of his expedition almost exactly one month after Captain Roald Amundson, the Norwegian explorer, reached the pole.

Haakon of Norway read: "Pole attained 14th-17th December, 1911. All well." The report of Captain Scott was destined not to be received by the waiting world until after his death. No details had come to hand this as to how the records of Captain Scott were found but that he arrived at the pole on the date mentioned was definitely known.

Morning Shopping Grows in Favor

The Christmas invitation of the merchant to "shop early" is still bearing fruit. Women know well that by shopping early in the morning their purchases can be made with far greater leisure and comfort and with the feeling that what they buy will be thoroughly satisfactory.

At that time the stores are not so crowded; the stocks are all in good order, so that time is saved in finding the best shade or size, and the clerks are not so fatigued.

All the merchants who advertise in THE GAZETTE want you to do your shopping at the most favorable time of the day. Everything is in your favor for morning shopping. Read THE GAZETTE carefully and constantly every night, so that you may be ready to go shopping early next morning. Plan your shopping tour in advance. Know what to buy and where to buy to best advantage. When special sales are advertised the opening hour is not too early to visit the store.

WANT A LARGE SUM TO MAKE A SHOWING

Expect Fight in Legislature on Proposed $50,000 Appropriation for San Francisco Exposition.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 10.—That Wisconsin may be adequately represented with her sister states at the Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915 at San Francisco, Assemblyman D. E. Rowe of Mellen has introduced a bill calling for a $50,000 appropriation. According to its terms, a state building is to be erected upon the grounds and the resources and progress of the state are to be represented. As 1915 will be the fiftieth anniversary of the close of the civil war, the colored contingent in Wisconsin is asking for an amendment to appropriate $10,000 of this amount to represent the progress made by the negro in the past half century. Assemblyman Rowe says he finds considerable sentiment in the legislature for the bill. There are some members of the finance committee who disapprove of the state making any expenditures for representation at San Francisco. It is claimed the finance committee has already cut down the expenses of the state government by proposed merger of different offices, so that $50,000 annually may be saved, and there is some sentiment against spending an equivalent amount for purposes not related to the immediate interests of the state government.

STATE CLAIM AGENT NO LONGER NEEDED

Assemblyman Roethe Seeks Abolition of Office Worth Over $3,500 Which, He Says, is Useless.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 10.—Assemblyman Henry E. Roethe tramped around the state capital like a Diogenes to find if any positions are superfluous. He came to the conclusion last week that the office of state claim agent is unnecessary, and tonight he will introduce a bill asking that the office be abolished. The position of state claim agent was created in 1899, and the official has always been given office room in the executive chamber. The salary is $3,500 a year and expense.

The idea originally back of the creation of this office was that there should be a man to prosecute the swamp land claims and war claims for the state against the federal government. During the first few years after its establishment the office collected large amounts. Assemblyman Roethe claims this condition no longer exists.

"This work can well be done by the revisor of the statutes and the attorney general," said Mr. Roethe. "The revisor can assist the governor in passing upon laws enacted by the legislature, and the attorney general can look after any claims the state may have against the federal government."

ELECTROCUTE THREE AT OSSING TODAY

Men Convicted of Murder Die in Chair At New York Prison.

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Three murderers were put to death in the electric chair at the Sing Sing prison today. Two of them murdered women. All three went to the chair with firm steps and each as he passed from the cell house to the death chamber called back a cheerful farewell to those who remained awaiting their end.

The first man to die was Joseph Garfalo, a huge Italian, who killed his wife because she threatened to divorce him. George Bishop, a negro, small and frail, was the second to take the chair. His crime was the murder of a white woman, Mrs. Margaret Bell in Brooklyn. Donato Carallo the last to die was convicted of slaying Stephen H. Dickson, whose body was found in a brook near Sing Sing.

Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, is scheduled to start this week for Australia, to attend the sessions of the Imperial Trade Commission in Australia and New Zealand. ## TELEGRAPH RATES CASE HAS FINAL HEARING

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 10.—The final hearing in the telegraph rates case was begun before the Railway Commission here today. The case is regarded as one of the most important that has ever come before the commission for adjudication. It originated more than two years ago in complaints filed by the Winnipeg board of trade alleging that the telegraph rates charged in the West were excessive. Later the scope of the case was broadened to take up the whole question of telegraph rates throughout Canada.

FATHER AND STEPSON KILLED IN HOME QUARREL

Waterloo, S. Dak., Feb. 10.—As the climax of a long standing family dissension between father and stepsons, E. O. Hammond, 51, and Clifford Jenkins 25, were shot dead and James Jenkins 21, probably fatally wounded in a general gun fight which occurred in the farm home at Hammond, three miles from here today.

ANDERSON DISPOSED TO INSTITUTE CASE IN SUPREME COURT

McGovern's Choice for Ekern's Position May Start Independent Action in Legal Controversy.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 10.—Because the appeal in the McGovern-Ekern controversy that has been made by Attorney John A. Aylward will only test a legal point in the case and not go to the merits, it is said here today that L. A. Anderson's attorney may start an independent action in the supreme court within a few days. This legal step will be made in the form of a quo warranto, which is an action by which the title to an office can be tested.

Another form of legal action at the disposal of Anderson's attorney is a mandamus action to gain possession of the books and records of the office. This action would also raise the question of the title to the office and would require the court to pass upon it before entering a decree. The reason for starting the action at once is based on the ground that should Ekern win his contention in the supreme court on the legal point involved it would take months before the case could again be slated on the supreme court calendar for settlement of the title to the office.

Other legal complications in the case are now generally forecasted. It is known here that citizens have asked Secretary of State John Donald if he intends to put H. L. Butler on a state warrant. Butler was appointed by the governor to defend the state action. In the circuit court two weeks ago Attorney Aylward protested against Butler's appearance in the case on that ground. Aylward contended at that time that it was an action against Governor McGovern as an individual and not as governor. Judge Stevens in his opinion did not pass on this feature of the case although the matter was urged by Attorney Butler.

Attorney John A. Aylward has high hopes that the legal doctrine in the case of Ward vs. Sweeney may be reversed in the highest court. He said that there are so many elements in the Ekern case different from the Ward case that he was justified in making an appeal on that ground. Judge Stevens' decree was based on the doctrine laid down by the majority of the court in that case.

CLARK SHAKES GAVEL AND CAUTIONS HASTE

Speaker of House Warns Congressmen That Appropriation Bills Must Be Passed at This Session.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Champ Clark today shook his gavel at the members of the house and told them they must get down to business in the few remaining days of the session. "The chair does not want to see these appropriation bills go over to the extraordinary session and I do not believe the members do. The chair does not want to set himself up as boss, but the only way for us to get this work done is for members to stay in their places on the floor of the house."

The fortifications bill, the second supply measure to go through both houses, finally was passed today.

The naval program will be voted upon tomorrow by the house committee on naval affairs. Indications point to a two battleship appropriation with a reduction in the usual program for minor craft.

Senator Crawford of South Dakota today introduced a bill to restrict the issuance of interlocutory injunctions which suspend the enforcement of a statute of a state.

For Three Days. Cetinje, Montenegro, Feb. 10.—A Montenegrin attack on the heights of Taranosch which dominates Scutari on the west has been going on for three days.

Carried Forts. Podgorica, Montenegro, Feb. 10.—The Montenegrin army besieging the Turkish fortress of Scutari carried the great Bardanjoli Hill by assault at half past ten this morning after several hours of severe fighting.

Hand to Hand. The infantrymen on several occasions came into such close quarters that hand to hand fighting was general along the line. Bardanjoli Hill dominates Scutari from the eastern side and the Montenegrins are mounting siege guns on the heights to bombard the principal points of the city.

Hard Fighting. Fighting has gone to since early morning all around the city. The Turkish defenders are disputing the fierce determination and courage ground against the besiegers with losses heavy. Cetinje, Montenegro, Feb. 10.—The capture of the Bardanjoli Hill at Scutari by the Montenegrins today cost the victors 2,500 men in killed and wounded. The Turks left 4,000 men dead and wounded on the field of battle.

REV. CHRISTY GIVES ANNIVERSARY SERMON

FIRST PASTOR OF ST. PETER'S CHURCH GIVES ADDRESS SUNDAY MORNING.

DR. FRICK TO SPEAK

Milwaukee Man Who Dedicated Church Ten Years Ago Will Review Church History This Evening.

Rev. W. P. Christy, first pastor of the St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church of this city, gave the anniversary sermon Sunday morning, opening a series of services which commemorate the dedication of the church ten years ago. The Rev. Paul H. Roth of Deloit, gave the address at the meeting last evening.

Dr. W. K. Frick of Milwaukee, who was prominent in the organization of the church in this city, will be the speaker at the meeting at seven-thirty o'clock tonight. His subject will be, "A History of the English Lutheran Church in Wisconsin."

The series of services will close on Tuesday evening with a reception in the lecture room of the church at which the Rev. A. C. Andra of Chicago, and Rev. A. F. Elmquist, D.D. of Minneapolis, will give informal addresses.

Rev. Christy in his address reviewed the early life of Christ and compared his experiences in gathering followers and preaching his doctrines with the growth of the modern church. Christ preached in his early years for his business as a teacher and leader in the new faith. In the same way the church must build on a firm foundation preparing thoroughly for the work in hand.

The speaker brought the message that the power of any church should not be confined alone to its own members and friends, but should extend its beneficent influence into the community uplifting and inspiring in the widest possible field.

In present day social problems the church can be a vitalizing factor. In the industrial field its purifying force can work for the betterment of the toiler and the laborer. There is no place or heart into which the church cannot send its cheering light of righteousness and redemption, was a leading thought.

Rev. Christy gave an inspiring address revealing the power of Christianity and its sponsor, the church in the broader and more human aspect, by which the appeal is made to every man and woman. The services yesterday were well attended and another large audience is expected at the meeting tonight.

RACINE DEFEATS KENOSHA IN BOTH DEBATES FRIDAY

Winner of Beloit-Janesville Contests This Week Will Meet Racine Teams.

The Racine high school negative debating team, a member of the Beloit College Debating League, opened its work last Friday night at Racine by winning from the Kenosha affirmative team by a vote of 3 to 0. At the same time, the Racine affirmative team at Kenosha, won by a vote of 2 to 1 against the Kenosha negative team. These two victories put Racine to the front in the race with Kenosha completely eliminated. The winner of the Janesville-Beloit debates will be pitted against Racine for the championship of Wisconsin. Racine appears strong and it will be a fight for either Beloit or Janesville to win over them. Janesville and Beloit expect to argue the question on Friday night of this week. The debates last week between Racine and Kenosha were the first of the year in the Beloit College League.

A DIFFERENCE

It Paid This Man to Change Food.

"What is called 'good living' eventually brought me to a condition quite the reverse of good health," writes a New York merchant.

"Improper eating told on me till my stomach became so weak that food nauseated me, even the lightest and simplest lunch, and I was much depressed after a night of uneasy slumber, unfitting me for business.

"This condition was discouraging, as I could find no way to improve it. Then I saw the advertisement of Grape-Nuts food, and decided to try it, and became delighted with the result.

"For the past three years I have used Grape-Nuts and nothing else for breakfast and for lunch before retiring. It speedily set my stomach right and I congratulate myself that I have regained my health. There is no greater comfort for a tired man than a lunch of Grape-Nuts. It insures restful sleep, and an awakening in the morning with a feeling of buoyant courage and hopefulness.

"Grape-Nuts has been a boon to my whole family. It has made of our 2-year-old boy, who used to be unable to digest much of anything, a robust healthy little rascal weighing 37 pounds. Mankind certainly owes a debt of gratitude to the expert who invented this perfect food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

SERIES OF MEETINGS WILL BEGIN TONIGHT

The Rev. Father A. O. Welsh of Chicago Lectures This Evening on "God and Man."

With a lecture on the subject of "God and Man," the Rev. Father A. O. Welsh of Chicago will this evening begin at the Myers Theatre a series of seven addresses on the fundamentals of the Roman Catholic faith. The meetings are for both members and non-members of that communion and are not designated to stir up controversy but to promote good will and create a better understanding between them through the removal of prevalent misconceptions. Questions bearing on the articles of faith and religious practices of the Roman Catholics may be left in the question box provided at the door and they will be answered from the platform. The last order of which the Rev. Father Welsh is a member was founded in the United States and has been especially prominent in the educational work of the Roman church in this country. It is the publisher of the "America," the now well known Roman Catholic weekly founded but a few years ago.

HEARING OF WESTON IS AGAIN ADJOURNED

Postponed Another Week at Request of Defendant Who Has Not Completed Preparation.

Examination of Jack Weston, the former book-keeper of the Rock River Woolen Mills, charged with the embezzlement of $35 from that firm, was postponed until next Monday at the request of the defendant when the case was called in the municipal court this morning. Adjournment of the examination until today had been granted in order that Weston might engage an attorney, confer with his nearest relatives, and make other provision for his defense. This morning Weston gave as reasons for a further adjournment that his mother and stepfather had not been able to come before because their home in Milwaukee was under quarantine, and therefore he had not made any arrangements for the examination. He has not yet engaged an attorney, but negotiations were in progress. His stepfather and his mother, Mr. and Mrs. French, were in court this morning.

The adjournment was made without protest from District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie, who announced that the state was ready to go ahead with the examination, but it was understood that the defendant would not ask for any further postponement.

THINKS HE'S FOUND CURE FOR CANCER

Prof. Thomas Powers.

Methods of curing cancer will have to be changed materially if the discovery of Prof. Thomas Powers of St. Ignace college, San Francisco, is put into effect. Professor Powers has been working for months on a powerful specific which has worked successfully in several cases. The treatment is said to be more effective, less injurious and more solidly based in medical fact than famous cures that have worked successfully in Germany and been introduced to a limited extent in the United States.

WRIT OF MANDAMUS TO FORCE ELECTION

Attorneys For Recall Petitioners May Ask Circuit Court For One After Filing Affidavits.

Application to the Circuit Court for a writ of mandamus compelling the City Clerk to call an election on the question of recalling one or more of the members of the City Council will be the first act of the attorneys for the recall petitioners after the affidavits as to the legality of the two hundred odd rejected signatures have been filed, according to authentic reports today. The first question not settled is whether the mandamus will call for an election for one or all the members of the Council. It is understood that the necessary papers are now being drafted.

That not more than ten or fifteen out of the 240 signatures declared to be those of non-voters will fail to be proved those of qualified electors when all the affidavits are filed is the statement of H. L. Maxfield one of the petitioners' counsel. Up to Saturday night not less than 100 affidavits had been obtained and by tonight it is expected the number will total 200. All of them will probably be filed with the City Clerk some time tomorrow or Wednesday. Attorney Frank W. Fisher has been associated with Attorney Maxfield in obtaining the affidavits.

A recent comparison with the signatures on the recall petitions with the names on the tax-rolls disclosed that only about 200 out of the 500 odd signatures are those of Janesville taxpayers.

DON'T OWN A HOME? NOT A GOOD CITIZEN

Iowa Agricultural Authority Takes a Slap at Self Satisfied Persons Who Live in Cozy Flats.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 10.—The man who rents was put in a class with the farmer who fails to make two ears grow where one grew before. In an address by Prof. F. G. Holden, famous Iowa agricultural authority before the Saturday lunch club.

"The man who doesn't own a home isn't a good citizen—just take that down," declared Prof. Holden, while university professors present began to think on their cozy apartment-house quarters called home.

"The time is here when tenement people can outstep John Howard Payne with that refrain, 'Flat, Sweet Flat,' as an expression of their domestic happiness, if such it is."

Prof. Holden, who is now connected with the International Harvester Company's agricultural promotion department, spoke of increased production as it affects the cost of living, and declared that the lowering of the living cost will depend a great deal upon the extent to which the farmers undertake to produce the most that can be gotten from the land. In this connection he gave high praise to the work of the Wisconsin board of public affairs for its measures for greater efficiency, production, co-operation, agricultural extension and manufacturing. He advocated home markets for home-produced foodstuffs and manufacturers.

LINK AND PIN NOTABLE DECREASE IN ACCIDENT LIST

Chicago & Northwestern. Monthly Report of Deaths and Accidents.

The monthly report of the deaths and injuries on the Northwestern has just been received and placed on file. The report shows 24 killed and 594 injured. The 1912 report shows 24 killed and 615 injured showing a noticeable decrease in the accident list. On the Wisconsin division there were 10 fatal accidents and 95 injured while in 1912 there were 3 killed and 88 injured. This slight increase is due to the great number of accidents that take place in the Chicago yards and crossing. There was one switchman, one brakeman, three trespassers, two passengers and the remaining three people were killed on crossings or being on the right of way.

On the Madison division there were no deaths but 35 were injured, 18 of them being on train service work. The 1912 record shows one killed and 35 injured. The Northern Wisconsin division had only 19 injuries. This speaks well for this division as the record shows that in 1912 there was one killed and 51 injured. With this good start the employees of the Northern Wisconsin should make a good showing in landing the prize safety banner for the coming year.

C. C. Richards, the backbone of the Northwestern safety first movement has started a world-wide movement in the matter of safety to employees. Officials of the imperial government railways of Japan have become interested in the movement and asked information and expect to introduce a system corresponding to that of the American road. The American roads are all fast adopting the movement and the total mileage of the railroads that have some form of the "Safety First" campaign totals 151,000 miles. The list takes in all the larger railroads of the United States. The New York Central lines with their 10,949 miles, the Santa Fe with its 10,500 miles and the St. Paul are the most important roads that have taken steps harmonizing with the Northwestern in its crusade against accidents.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Orders have been received from G. Morrison pertaining to the great expense of running through the switches. During the last few months the expense to the railroad companies repairing switches has been very large and 88 percent of the cases, investigation develops, was damage that should not have occurred, indicating that the engineers and others do not realize the expense or interruption to the service due to such accidents and the great danger connected with this habit.

Repairs of this kind are not only expensive but subject the company to great loss of business because of detention of stock trains. Derailments are also caused by running through the switches and all employees should do all in their power to decrease this expense. The switches are now installed so that trains may run through them on the new patent switches which will probably be put in general use within a short time.

KEEP THE CHILDREN'S BOWELS CLEAN NOW

IF TONGUE IS COATED, STOMACH SOUR, BREATH FEVERISH, BOWELS CLOGGED, GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS."

Children dearly love to take delicious "Syrup of Figs" and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs, liver and 30 feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.

Children get bilious and constipated just like grown-ups. Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; they become feverish, cross, irritable and don't want to play. Listen mothers—for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, violent cathartic or harsh irritants like Cathartic pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child smiling and happy again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul, clogged-up waste and poisons, without causing cramps or griping.

With Syrup of Figs you are not dragging or injuring your children. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna" prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious, tasteful genuine old, reliable. Refuse anything else offered. Advertisement.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCorty

There is at least one baseball player who has gone on record as preferring to play with the minors than with the Chicago Cubs. This remarkable individual is Richard Cantwell, a Hyde Park, Ill., schoolboy, who has just refused to sign a contract to go with the Cubs on the spring training trip. Cantwell argued that the chances were strong that he'd be farmed out if he signed with the big league club. A good offer was made by Oshkosh in the Wisconsin league and he accepted it.

No more baseball for Harry Davis, former Cleveland Nap manager. It was reported not long ago that Davis was to be assistant manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. Since then Davis has gone into business in Philadelphia.

They must have a wonderful hockey team at Portage Lake, which is near Houghton, in Upper Michigan. This aggregation has beaten everything in sight this season, including the strong Cleveland Athletic club. Perhaps one reason for the Portage Lake team's prowess is that the members can practice most of the year. Portage Lake isn't far from the North pole.

White and black fighters won't mingle in New York state again as long as a recent rule passed by the state boxing commission remains in force. The rule provides against what is called "mixed" contests, thus forbidding Sam Langford, Sam McVey and Jack Johnson from meeting any of the white hopes in the Empire state. It is understood that the commission's vote was unanimous.

By defeating Henry Gehring of Cleveland in two straight falls at Salt Lake City the other day, Mike Yokel of the latter city is now middleweight champion wrestler. This was Yokel's third meeting with Gehring. They wrestled to a draw in 2 hours and 38 minutes at Salt Lake City two years ago, and a year ago Gehring won on points in three hours in Cleveland.

Frank Gotch says he's perfectly willing to wrestle one big match for the world's title—providing he be fairly well paid for it. He isn't a hog or anything like that, in fact, is a perfectly modest. All he wants is $20,000. No one has been observed rushing toward Gotch with an offer to pay twenty thousand.

Charles Ledoux, the bantamweight champion of France, is on his way to America and on arrival here will place himself under the management of Lou Durlacher, of Philadelphia. Durlacher will try to arrange a match between Ledoux and Johnny Coulon. Failing in this he will put Ledoux against Frankie Burns of Jersey City.

Paddy Lavin, convinced that his best fighting days are over, has become a fight manager. He has under his wing Joe Hartman, the Minnesota featherweight, who has shown to advantage in several bouts. Hartman made his debut in Buffalo recently, decisively beating Kid Spencer, regarded as a fairly rough proposition.

CARDINALS DEFEAT FAST CHICAGO FIVE

Local Team Plays Hard to Defeat Chicago Cardinals 24 to 22 at the Rink on Saturday.

The Janesville Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cardinals at the rink Saturday night by the score of 24 to 22. The game was close throughout, and Janesville was never out of danger. The Chicago team has a good record behind them, this being their second defeat. The Armour Square team, who defeated the local team a short time ago, is the only other team that was victorious against them. The Chicago team has won the championship of the church leagues in Chicago for three years besides defeating six of the teams at, and in the vicinity of Chicago this year. They proved themselves good players in the passing game and were good shots, but when it came to dribbling and team work they were lacking.

Parker and Renz were the stars of the visiting team. Parker getting four baskets and two fouls while Renz caged the ball three times on hard shots. For Janesville, Green and Langdon played superior games. Green scored eight points for Janesville and held his man basketless. Langdon showed poor form at shooting the first half, missing numerous easy shots but was the leading man in the team work. His dribbling was the main factor in Janesville's team work for none of the Chicago team could stop him from advancing the ball up the floor in this manner. In the first half the playing on both sides was rugged. Janesville falling down on easy shots and Chicago trying long shots and not even hitting the bounding board. Parker, the visiting center, made several pretty side shots which enabled his team to lead the locals at the end of the half by the score of 13 to 12.

The playing in the second half was faster and more intensive than in the opening period. Janesville came back strong and soon scored the score in their lead. Langdon recovered his accuracy and made three goals, while Cunningham also added to Janesville's lead. The playing was rough and Chicago complained on this account. Thompson, right guard for the visitors, was taken out, Sullivan replacing him. Sullivan began to demonstrate how rough he could play but a few well aimed bumps and several spills convinced him that the locals were able to hold their own in this style of play. Chicago made a spurt towards the latter part of the half and made a strong effort to win but they were not able to overcome Janesville's lead. The final score was 24 to 22.

Summary—Chicago—Cardinals—Edwards, rf; Renz, lf; Parker, c; Thompson, ss; Sullivan, rg; Delt, lg; Chauncey, sub. Janesville—Cunningham, rf; Green, lf; Wilkinson, c; Langdon, rg.

BASEBALL MAGNATES AT ANNUAL MEETING

Two Major Leagues to Hold Sessions After International Managers' Finish Business.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE. New York, Feb. 10.—Several days of important doings in baseball circles opened here this afternoon, when the magnates of the international league assembled for their annual spring meeting, which will be followed tomorrow by the schedule meetings of the two major leagues.

Comparatively little business confronted the rulers of the International League outside of the election of officers and the adoption of a schedule. Apparently there was no opposition to the re-election of President Edward Barrow and no changes in the circuit were contemplated.

Nearly all of the club owners and managers of the National and American leagues are in town for their meetings tomorrow. The general expectation is that no friction will develop in either meeting and that everything will be harmonious. Most interest centers in the possibility of some important trades resulting from the gathering of the managers.

The schedules of both leagues were completed by the joint committee more than a month ago and only await ratification at the hands of the magnates. Before the end of the week the schedules probably will be made public, so that the followers of the game all over the two circuits will be able to figure out how their favorite teams have been treated in the distribution of the season's most desirable holiday, Saturday and Sunday games.

FAST WRESTLING BOUTS ANNOUNCED AT BELOIT

Many Janesville followers of the wrestling game are planning to attend the match to be held at Beloit, February 13. The matches are to be held at the Wilson opera house, and the Beloit fans are enthusiastic over the outlook of the fine matches. Elwood House champion of Iowa, will clash with Floyd Domer, noted wrestler from southern Illinois. The match between these two heavyweights will be a close and hard contest as both men are well known in the game. The other bout is between Bl Nichols, former college athlete, and Oscar Schliche of Lake Geneva. Several fast preliminary bouts will be staged and the local fans expect to see some good wrestling. Dana Evans, coach of Beloit college will referee the bouts.

TO PLAY A SECOND GAME WITH MILTON COLLEGE

The Janesville Y. M. C. A. basketball team, which has been inactive for the past three weeks, will resume their games when they clash with Milton College at Milton Saturday night. The Y team defeated the college boys in the early part of the season by the score of 26 to 20. The college team has had plenty of practice and has defeated several strong minor college teams. The locals will practice hard this week and will be in good shape to hold their own. The Janesville lineup will be: Wilson and French, forwards; Cunningham, center; Sanford and Mott, guards.

"WILDCAT" FERNS UNIQUE WELTERWEIGHT FIGHTER; DOESN'T CLAIM TO BE CHAMP

Although Clarence "Wildcat" Ferns has one of the best records of any fighter in the welterweight class, and although he has as much or more right to claim the title in that division than any of the other boxers, he is unique in that he is the only welter of prominence in the United States who does not claim the championship.

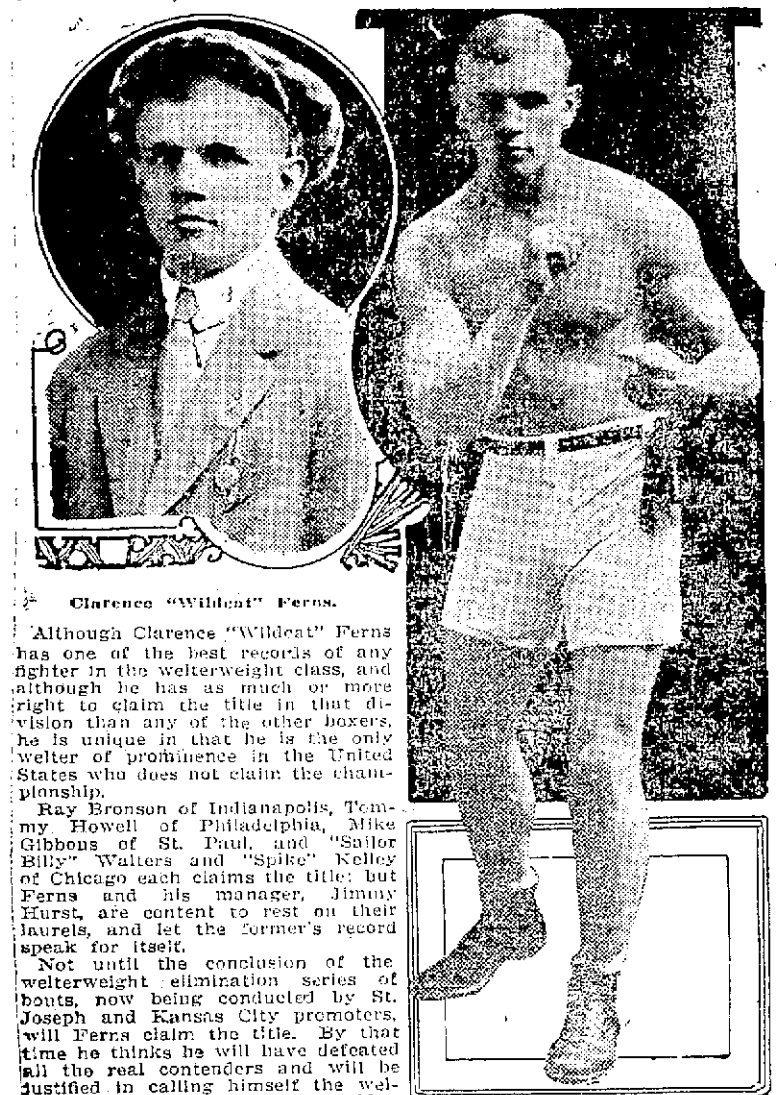

Ray Bronson of Indianapolis, Tommy Howell of Philadelphia, Mike Gibbons of St. Paul, and "Sailor" Billy Walters and "Spiky" Kelly of Chicago each claim the title, but Ferns and his manager, Jimmy Hurst, are content to rest on their laurels, and let the former's record speak for itself.

Not until the conclusion of the welterweight elimination series of bouts, now being conducted by St. Joseph and Kansas City promoters, will Ferns claim the title. By that time he thinks he will have defeated all the real contenders and will be justified in calling himself the welterweight champion of the world.

Theater

"THE GIRL AT THE GATE."

The average actress hates an audience made up entirely of women. There may be a reason for this, as the female of the species are well known to be the severest critics of their own sex. Most artists make their managers, or the author of the play, put in some cute speeches to catch the men and endeavor in every way possible to make their parts interest the male portion of an audience. There is one exception in this rule, however, and that is Cathryn Rowe Palmer of "The Girl at the Gate" company. In a recent interview she made this statement: "When I see a woman laugh, I feel that I have accomplished something; it is easy to make the men laugh, but to bring a ripple of merriment from a woman requires a good clean joke that is really funny. There is too much sadness in this world, and the women folks have to bear the brunt of it. If I can make them laugh, I know they will forget their troubles and that is doing a lot of charitable work, I think. And I guess it is because I play to the women that I get the biggest crowds of women to see the shows I play with of any attraction on the road. In fact I will, if I can, secure the consent of managers of theaters to get up matinees 'for ladies only' at which I will exclude everything that is of the masculine gender. Gee, wouldn't that be great for me to play to nothing but women, and wouldn't it make 'me' work hard to make them think I was the greatest gloom dispeller in the world?"

"PRESERVING THE FILMS." Few people realize the immense value of copyrighted moving-picture films, or understand the great care which is given to these thousands of feet of celluloid ribbon, which flash on a whitened screen scenes and story in cinematography. Thus at first one would hardly understand why the Paul J. Hadeney African Hunt Films, to be seen at the Myers Theater on February 24, 25, and 26 with special matinee are insured for $100,000, or why each night after the performance an operator, guarded by a policeman, takes them to a safety deposit vault, where they remain until they are needed at the theater. But these precautions can be understood when it is known that the Jungle Film Company, which owns the Rainey Pictures, places a conservative estimate of their profits from this source during the coming theatrical season, $250,000.

There are now four exhibitions of these pictures going on, namely: Walcutt the men and endeavor in every way possible to make their parts interest the male portion of an audience. There is one exception in this rule, however, and that is Cathryn Rowe Palmer of "The Girl at the Gate" company. In a recent interview she made this statement: "When I see a woman laugh, I feel that I have accomplished something; it is easy to make the men laugh, but to bring a ripple of merriment from a woman requires a good clean joke that is really funny. There is too much sadness in this world, and the women folks have to bear the brunt of it. If I can make them laugh, I know they will forget their troubles and that is doing a lot of charitable work, I think. And I guess it is because I play to the women that I get the biggest crowds of women to see the shows I play with of any attraction on the road. In fact I will, if I can, secure the consent of managers of theaters to get up matinees 'for ladies only' at which I will exclude everything that is of the masculine gender. Gee, wouldn't that be great for me to play to nothing but women, and wouldn't it make 'me' work hard to make them think I was the greatest gloom dispeller in the world?"

Next season ten organizations will start on tour throughout the country to exhibit these pictures. A moving-picture film can be copied in a few hours by a certain process, so that anyone securing the original for only a few hours, could make hundreds of copies, and scatter them broadcast over the country in the 5 and 10 cent houses, and before the legal procedure of enjoining could be started, they would have been exhibited long enough to ruin the business of the controlling company next season. Thus the reason for the high insurance, the safety deposit vault, and of managers of theaters to get up matinees 'for ladies only' at which I will exclude everything that is of the masculine gender. Gee, wouldn't that be great for me to play to nothing but women, and wouldn't it make 'me' work hard to make them think I was the greatest gloom dispeller in the world?"

Her Infinite Variety. As we sit down and ponder over the summer courtship we find the hand that wielded the canoe paddle now wields the broom. The suppers on river banks are now in a small dining room. The gazing at the sky in summer time is now looking to see if the wash can safely be put out. The hand in the wash tub is the hand that that trailed over the canoe side. The soft voice in quiet lanes is now—Don't you think it's a cruel world?—Kirkwood Courier.

IMPEACHMENT TALK.

Dispatches from Madison would seem to indicate that there is a decided feeling of unrest on the part of some of the members of the legislature. That the last of the McGovern-Ekern episode has not yet been written as far as the legislature itself is concerned, and the rumor of an impeachment proceeding against the governor is heard.

McGovern represents McGovern and his close followers were for the majority men who left the ranks of the national republican party to vote for Colonel Roosevelt and his ill-timed progressive campaign. Ekern represents the LaFollette wing of the republican party which has practical control of both houses of the legislature.

The removal of Mr. Ekern from the office of insurance commissioner has not yet been accomplished de facto, but as far as Governor McGovern is concerned his nominee, Anderson, is insurance commissioner. The senate has refused to confirm Anderson's appointment, in fact even went further and sought to bring the governor before them to answer questions as to the removal of the official. He promptly refused.

The senate then brought in a verdict favoring Ekern, alleging among other things that McGovern's action in dismissing his assistant in state affairs, was all pre-arranged, and hurried through to escape action by the senate. It was a laughable decision in view of the fact the senate's decision was doubtless prepared in Washington days ahead of the hearing and mailed on to Madison for confirmation only. It was like the kettle calling the pot black.

But now comes the talk of impeachment of the governor and the exercise of the power of the state legislative body to discipline the state's chief executive.

The Wisconsin constitution declares: "The house of representatives shall have the power to impeach all civil officers of this state for corrupt conduct in office or for crimes and misdemeanors; but the majority of all the members elected shall concur in an impeachment."

Under which one of these causes of impeachment the usurpation or wrongful use of power, which the people who are talking impeachment of the governor say is to be the basis of the action against him consider his action comes, it is hard to say.

It is not probable this will be an accomplished fact and that when cooler heads take charge of affairs they will allow the courts to decide the question. That McGovern had the power to remove Ekern even the lower court conceded, but it is the method used that the legislature objected to, and behind it all is the fact that the governor is building up a machine of his own that bids fair to wreck the LaFollette ship of state on political rocks if not checked. It is an interesting fight to watch to the men sitting on the fence as the procession goes by.

MORE CHANGES.

We have the postal savings banks, the parcels post already in operation, and penny postage under consideration, and now other reformers would take a step farther and establish employment agencies in the postoffice buildings themselves. The Christian Science Monitor discusses this subject in the following manner:

"A few years ago the idea that the public school buildings of the country, when not otherwise employed, should be used for the social advancement of the neighborhoods in which they stood was received with much head-shaking, in some instances with bitter opposition. Today schoolhouses in all parts of the country are social centers. The dignity of public education has not been affronted by the presence of the plain people in the classrooms at off-hours. Respect for the public school has not diminished. Teachers find that their authority goes as far as ever. Children learn their lessons as well. Nobody has been hurt. Nothing has been hurt. Many persons and many things have been helped and improved.

"It is not to be expected that the proposal to use the postoffices of the United States as employment agencies will be, at the start, received with unanimous approval. The post-office itself met with serious opposition at the beginning, because it was felt that it would interfere with the private letter-carrying business, with the stage-coach business, and with the wayside inns. It was deemed certain by many that cheaper postage rates and the extension of free delivery would eventually bankrupt the government. Establishment of the special delivery service would hurt the telegraph companies. Establishment of the postal banks would ruin the regular private banks. Establishment of the parcels post would be a dangerous experiment. Warnings are already sounded against the establishment of a government postal telegraph system. In view of all this, it would be passing strange if the idea of using the postoffices as employment agencies should escape objection.

"Yet criticism of the proposal thus far does not carry much weight. It is based principally upon the admitted fact that the plan will be an innovation. Everything new is an innovation, but the new is not rejected for that reason. Unanswerable points in favor of the scheme are that the United States, through the medium of its postal system, is in an excellent position to acquaint itself with labor conditions throughout the entire country, to impart this information through bulletins, to dispense it by word of mouth through its postoffice attaches, to aid in the shifting of labor from markets overdone to markets underserved so that there shall neither be surplus in one quarter nor scarcity in another.

"Details are to be worked out, and they can and will be worked out if the scheme be adopted. In this big country the thing is to strive toward the best results for the largest number, and that a government undertaking does not promise to meet the needs of the few is no reason why it should not be applied to the needs of the majority."

CONDITIONS CHANGING.

After passing the Duma, a bill admitting women to the practice of law in Russia has been rejected by the Council of the Empire, by the rather close vote of 84 to 66. It is not long since many American state legislatures would have defeated a like measure by a larger majority.

Here is striking proof not only of the spread of women's liberties and privileges, as well as rights, but also of the changes which are going on in Russia and shaking the old order to its foundations. True, there have been Muscovite empresses, two of them among the strongest sovereigns that ever ruled the empire, but Russia is nevertheless one of the last countries in the civilized world which would be expected to favor the admission of women to the bar, for instance, or any like innovation.

There is unmistakable progress in Russia, in many ways. The vast state is being altered radically by the pressure of modern conditions and ideas, and whatever changes Russia affects a tremendous mass of human beings. There are at least 175,000,000 subjects of the Czar, probably 150,000,000, and they occupy or hold about 16 per cent of the land surface of the globe.

MEXICO'S NEW REVOLUTION.

Today's dispatches announce a new revolution has broken out in Mexico, this time in the capital city, and that the president of this sister republic has been forced to flee with a few armed friends, leaving his revolting army in control of affairs. The dispatches also go farther and announce that President Taft will take no decided action in the matter, preferring to leave it as a heritage for the incoming Wilson administration. President Wilson, it is asserted, is inclined to retain a position of neutrality, which means that the Mexicans can fight it out and decide matters for themselves. Meanwhile millions of dollars of American capital is invested in the country in danger of serious loss to the investors if the revolutionists continue to unsettle the government.

There is a low just passing off over the Gulf of St. Lawrence, a high over the lower Lake region, its skirts extending southward over the Appalachians. A low over Manitoba, with its trough extending southward along the front of the Rockies and a high occupies the Columbia basin. Characteristic weather attends each of these disturbances, thus it is clear and cold in the St. Lawrence valley and eastern Ontario. Warm and cloudy in the Mississippi valley and on the Plains with rain in the south, and snow in the Missouri valley, while fair weather prevails in the northern Plateau region. ## Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE DIVINITY OF THE COMMON LIFE.

There are various kinds of snobbery, but one of the worst is that which affects to despise common things.

Abraham Lincoln, who had not a shred of the snob in his makeup, once said, "The Lord must love the common people; he made so many of them."

On its face that appears a witticism. Look deeper and you may see in it a profound philosophy.

That which is most common is most universal, and that which is most universal is most divine.

Think it over.

Not only so, but that which is most common is often most beautiful.

What is more lovely than the rose, the grass, the trees, the sky, the sea or the stars?

They are all common.

Poe once said that the greatest poems are those built about the homely emotions—the love of man and maid, of mother and child, of country, of God, of home. Yet these emotions are common.

Some one else has said that genius consists in the ability to express what everybody else feels. This is but giving voice to what is common to all men.

The greatest things in life are not my peculiarities, but the things I have in common with my fellows, the fullness with which I give utterance to these things, the points of contact I have with all manner and conditions of men.

Benjamin Franklin was at home in the farmer's cabin, the scientist's laboratory, the legislative hall and the king's palace. He had points of contact with all.

The greatest men are so. They possess common facilities raised to the nth power. This is genius.

The highest kind of sense is common sense. It is the essence of the experience and wisdom of all ages.

The man who beholds the divinity of common life suddenly sees the miracle and beauty of God's good green world.

Yes, Why?

The curate of a large and fashionable church was endeavoring to teach the significance of white to a Sunday school class. "Why," said he, "does a bride invariably desire to be clothed in white at her marriage?" As no one answered, he explained. "White," said he, "stands for joy, and the wedding day is the most joyous occasion of a woman's life." A small boy queried, "Why do the men all wear black?"

WANTS AFFIDAVIT TO EXPLAIN CASE

County Treasurer Livermore Would Safeguard County in Matter of Janesville Re-assessment Charge.

County Treasurer F. F. Livermore in a conference today with the city treasurer, George W. Moonchow, sought to secure an understanding with the city of Janesville in regard to the re-assessment charge which is included in the amount of state taxes assessed to this city. The city council has been advised by the city attorney, W. H. Dougherty, not to pay the item, but Mr. Livermore wants to secure an affidavit from the city clerk, an affidavit setting forth the reasons for refusing to settle for the amount, over $3,000, so that he may protect himself and the county when he makes his returns to the state treasurer; the latter part of the month. The city will pay over $14,839.38, the amount of state taxes less the re-assessment item.

ESCAPES A HOLD-UP BY DROPPING PURSE

Young Woman Accosted on Court Street Saturday Night—Police Arrest a Suspect.

While on her way home from court town a little before ten o'clock Saturday night, Miss Tillie Doner, a domestic employed at the home of J. S. Lovejoy, 58 Jackson street, noticed that a strange man was dogging her steps as she climbed the Court street hill. When she reached the corner of Court and Wisconsin streets, just outside the parish house of Christ Episcopal church, where the porch light still burned, she stopped as if to let the man pass. Instead of doing so he seized her arm. Miss Doner's screams of fright failed to make him release his hold until a cab was heard coming around the next corner. She then broke away, dropping in the struggle her muff and purse. Her assailant, whose face she did not discern, picked up the purse and escaped into the park. Miss Doner was so frightened and unnerved by her experience that she had to be brought home in the cab, the drivers of which had stopped when they heard her cries for help.

The purse was picked up yesterday morning in the yard to the rear of the M. G. Jeffris home. The $1.35 that it contained was gone, but thirty-five cents in stamps and other articles in the purse had not been removed. Miss Doner was able to give the police but a very indefinite description of her assailant. Yesterday afternoon Chief of Police Appleby locked up as a suspect, "Mickey" Burns, a young man who once lived in this city, and has been loitering around the streets for the last week or more. His replies to questions put to him concerning his whereabouts Saturday night were surly and non-committal. He had thirty-five cents in his pockets which he claimed a cab-driver had given him, and also a lady's powder puff and chamois skin. It was learned that these were not in the purse of Miss Doner. Definite charges have not yet been preferred against Burns.

Conservatory Living Room.

A happy idea in house construction, says Country Life in America, is the new plan of combining conservatory and living room. The idea has possibilities, both for the elaborate mansion and the modest cottage. Ferns, flowers, easy chairs and abundant sunlight make the conservatory living room an apartment that radiates beauty, cheerfulness and comfort.

DIES OF EXPOSURE; BODY FOUND SUNDAY

Carl Anskenski Wandered From Home of Grandmother Near Hanover and Dies During Night.

While temporarily deranged, due to long suffering from tubercular trouble, Carl Anskenski, aged twenty-eight, who lived with his grandmother near Hanover, wandered from her home late Saturday night and his dead body was found Sunday morning, partially disrobed, a mile from the house. Anskenski had been suffering from tuberculosis for two years past and spent in a tent at his grandmother's, Mrs. Hanson's, little farm, during the evening and Saturday morning. He was missed late Saturday evening and a search immediately begun, but his frozen body was not found until Sunday when it was removed to Oxford and prepared for burial. Long suffering had caused temporary insanity and the young man had acted peculiarly all day Saturday and had been closely watched. He escaped during the evening and when he left home was dressed but evidently partially disrobed during his wanderings as he was almost nude when found. He is a member of a large family, a younger brother living in Hanover and cousins near Afton.

We've decided to continue our Great Annual February Clearing Sale for 15 days longer. Watch for a great large bill giving special prices.

"PAID IN FULL" PLEASES TWO AUDIENCES AT MYERS

Appealing Play of Modern Life Continues to Hold Its Popularity With Theatre-goers.

Two fair-sized audiences were pleased at the presentation of the play, "Paid in Full," by Eugene Walter, as given at the Myers theatre Sunday afternoon and evening. The fact that this is the fourth season on the road for this production and that it still holds its popularity with theatre-goers is sufficient testimony to the power and appeal which this modern drama contains. As presented by the cast last night the strong points were ably brought out and the story was directly and vividly presented. Virgil Pritchard as Joe Brooks, Claude Bordman as Jimmy Smith, Earl McDonald as the sea captain, and Elizabeth Gillespie as Mrs. Brooks, were the nucleus of a well chosen cast.

Golden Blend Coffee

As soon as Golden Blend Coffee became generally known, the coffee drinkers of Janesville clamored for more. It is a blend which we decided upon after much experimenting, as being the most unvaryingly successful in producing perfect Coffee. And because of the critical attention to its proper "ageing," Golden Blend Coffee is especially sustaining and wholesome, as well as clear, rich and fragrant.

Try a pound at 33c. You will come back for more.

ty was to consist of sixteen men besides himself while groups of four men each were to return at different stages of the journey leaving Scott and four others to complete the final dash to the pole. This would indicate that some of the members of the party who had been left at the various bases were not included among the victims of the disaster and that it was they who communicated to the world the fate of the expedition.

Seems Incredible.

Madison, Feb. 10.—"Horrible, horrible. I can hardly believe it," said Captain Amundson when he received news of the disaster to Captain Scott and his party. Captain Amundson said he was too dazed to speak but finally said, "It is hard to believe this. There must be some horrible mistake. It seems incredible that such a large party should perish in this way. They must have been near to their base of supplies and it is also hard to understand how the weather could have been so severe as to cause the death of all of them."

Peary's Views.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, United States navy retired, who received a gold medal and the thanks of congress as the first man to attain the north pole, said when he received today the news of the death of Captain Scott and his companions:

"The news comes to me as a terrible shock. Mrs. Scott and the wives and relatives of the brave men who perished with Captain Scott and the whole British nation may have my deepest, sincerest and most heartfelt sympathy and condolence."

Novel Courses at University.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 10.—Several novel, extension courses are included in the list for the second semester which began at Brown University today. ### TEXAS CONGRESSMAN WHO MAKES HIT WITH PEOPLE IN SENATE AFTER MARCH 4

Having won at the Texas state-wide senatorial primaries this summer by a handsome vote, Congressman Morris Sheppard will be named by the legislature of the Lone Star state this winter as senator for the term beginning March 4 next. Congressman Sheppard is a native of Texas and was born in 1855. He was educated at the University of Texas and at the Yale law school, graduating from the latter institution in 1898. He began the practice of law at Pittsburg, Tex., in 1898. The following year he moved to Texarkana, where he has since followed his profession. Congressman Sheppard was married to Miss Lucile Sanderson, of Texarkana, in 1909. She is a graduate of Belcourt Seminary in Washington and is an accomplished musician. An eighteen-month-old daughter, Miss Janet, takes up much of her time, but whenever it is possible she travels with her husband when he is on a speech-making tour and is greatly interested in politics. She says that she likes to meet his constituents and tries to keep in close touch with the big affairs in which he is taking part.

Why Expect the Worst?

THE postman had left a letter.

"Dear! dear!" she said, disconsolately, examining the postmark and handwriting. "I wonder what has happened? I haven't had a letter from these folks for a long time. I know some of them must be sick. Isn't it dreadful? Everybody is sick nowadays."

She broke the seal apprehensively, and began to read. As she read, her face brightened. "There's nothing the matter," she said, as she finished. "But I certainly expected bad news when I saw that letter."

A good many of us are like that woman. If we receive a letter from a friend at an unusual time, we think immediately, "Something has gone wrong." If some member of the family writes when we are not looking for word, the very envelope says, "Sickness," or some other dire woe.

But not only do unexpected letters fill us with apprehension, but in regard to many other things, do we expect the worst.

If an automobile is bought, doesn't some one in the circle of relatives or friends say gloomily, "I just know there'll be an awful accident."

If one is going on a trip, isn't there some one to arise and prophesy sickness, or the loss of pocketbook or tickets?

And so it goes.

But why look for the worst?

Every one of these things has a bright face as well as a dark one. One is just as likely to be turned toward us as the other. So why expect the unpleasant?

And we may be actually doing ourselves or others harm by expecting the worst.

For we are beginning to see, though dimly as yet, that laws of which we heretofore have known little, are at work. We are beginning to find out that in the realms of the unseen, as well as in the realms of the seen, the law of attraction holds good, and that like attracts like; and that if our mind is filled with the thought of disaster, we attract that disaster to us. John says, "That which I greatly feared is come upon me." And that which we give mental form to, may in time materialize.

So since expecting the worst does no good and may do evil, why not face about and expect the best? If looking for the unpleasant has no other result, it gives us a gloomy outlook on life. And this in itself is depressing. It affects our health, and then things begin to go wrong.

But some will say, life really has ill in store for us. Even so, why anticipate it? And, too, we are beginning to doubt somewhat the statement, and to see that life itself is good, and that it is we who twist it and make it go wrong.

And who knows?—we may give it the initial twist, by always looking for the worst.

So, let us expect the postman to bring us good news.

Let us expect health, exhilaration, delight from the automobile.

Let us expect unalloyed pleasure from the trip.

Let us expect the good that the Giver of all things has created so bountifully.

If we do, we'll be in a happier frame of mind, won't we, than if we expect the worst?

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Gitchell Kirk

The Road to Men's Hearts.
Some recipes for dishes most men like:

Corn Meal Griddle Cakes.
Materials—Sour milk or butter-milk, one cup; corn meal one and a half cups; flour, one-half cup; salt, one-half teaspoonful; soda, one tablespoonful; two eggs.

Beat the eggs well in the bowl without separating, adding the milk with the soda dissolved in a tablespoonful of boiling water. Mix in the remaining ingredients and bake on a hot griddle.

Hashed Browned Potatoes.
Material—Five cold boiled potatoes; one tablespoonful butter, one-half cup cream, one teaspoonful salt, red and green pepper, each one-half.

Utensil—Spider.
Chop the potatoes, not to fine, also the butter and the salt. Put the butter into the spider, pour the potatoes over them. Pour the cream over them. Do all this over a quick fire, then cover and push to the back of the stove, turn the gas burner very low and cook slowly fifteen minutes. When ready to serve, turn out carefully on a hot platter, garnish and send at once to the table.

Pan Lamb Chops.
Follow the above recipe in every detail, except the time for broiling will be less or more according to the thickness of the chops.

Doughnuts.
Materials—Sugar 1 cup; milk (sweet), 1 cup; pastry flour, 4 1/2 cups; eggs, 2; crisco or butter, 1 1/2 tablespoons; cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoonful; cloves, 1/4 teaspoonful; salt, 1 teaspoonful; baking powder, 2 1/2 teaspoonful.

Measure the fat into the mixing bowl and rub to a cream. Gradually add the sugar to this, rubbing all the while. Beat the eggs until very

Pot Roast.
Materials—Beef, 3 1/2 pounds; suet, 1-4 pound; onion, 1; boiling water, 1 pint; salt, pepper.

Choose a thick cut of beef from the shoulder and wipe with a damp cloth. Have the kettle hot and put in the suet and render out the fat. Remove the scraps, add the onion sliced and cook until a light brown. Take the onions from the kettle and put in the meat. Sear on one side and then on the other. Turn once more and put the onions on the meat, adding the boiling water. Cover and simmer slowly one hour. Season with salt and pepper and continue to cook until done, an hour and a half or two hours. The secret of a pot roast is more in the cooking than in the meat, being sure not to let it boil at any time. Have sufficient liquid in the kettle for gravy, which may be thickened with a tablespoonful of flour after the meat is removed to the platter. Pour the gravy over the meat and serve. Potatoes may be cooked with the roast, or one-half pound of prunes, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar and one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon makes a spiced pot roast.

CHICKEN DISHES.

There are so many nice dishes which one may prepare from the leftovers of a fowl—chicken soup, chicken salad, chicken sandwiches, chicken loaf and chicken croquettes. A most delicious soup is prepared by covering the bones of a stewed or roasted chicken with the last and simmer for several hours. The water half hour add a slice of onion and two stalks of celery, the coarse tops or leaves will do, cook until tender, then strain through a fine sieve. Put the strained soup in a saucepan and bind with two tablespoonfuls each of chicken fat and flour cooked together; add a cup of rich cream to the broth, season with salt and cayenne pepper, and pour very gently over two well beaten eggs.

Giblets on Toast.—Simmer the giblets in water until tender, then chop fine, add slice of onion to two tablespoonfuls of onion, cook until the onion is yellow, remove it and add two tablespoonfuls of flour; cook until smooth, add a cup of rich milk, the giblets and serve on toast.

Chicken Salad.—Mix equal parts of chicken, cut in small bits, with celery. If there seems to be too little of the chicken, add a few nuts and a chopped olive or two. Mix with salad dressing of any desired variety, serve on lettuce well chilled.

Chicken loaf is good to use up the bits of left-over chicken. The gelatine may be obtained from cooking the feet of the chicken. A pair or two of chickens will serve for gelatine; if not enough, add a tablespoonful of meat; if not enough, add a few hard cooked eggs sliced; pour over the broth with the gelatine, and mold. When sliced this makes a delicious salad, arranging a slice on a lettuce leaf.

The proprietor of the finest cafe in Los Angeles formerly sold "hot tamales" from a push cart, and although he is now wealthy, he still preserves this old vehicle. In erecting a business block to house his modern restaurant he built a cupola just large enough to contain the old tamale cart, and it may be plainly seen from the street.

OBJECTIONS TO DRINKING AT MEALS.

"The free use of water at meals," says Dr. W. D. Wooster, in Life and Health, "dilutes the gastric juice, decreases its digestive action, and interferes with the motility of the stomach. Cold water chills it and retards digestion until it has been warmed to body temperature. Continual drinking at meals, especially of cold water, has been the cause of many digestive disorders." While the correctness of the belief that drinking at meals is injurious has been recently questioned by good authority, the habit of washing down the food with water or any other liquid is undoubtedly injurious and the preponderance of evidence and competent opinion is in favor of abstaining from drinking within an hour or two of the time of eating. Aside from the arguments commonly advanced in favor of excluding liquids, the general principle that the work of the stomach should be made as simple as possible, if liquid is to be taken, it is best at the beginning of the meal.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

ON THE BLUE TICKET.

DEAR little newly wed friend of mine who is usually the cheeriest thing in the world, came to me the other day with the corners of her mouth turned way down. I feared it meant the first quarrel and waited for confidences. In a little while they came, but they were not what I expected. It seems that her husband had been very blue lately; there were changes at the office, he said; he might possibly lose his position, and she was terribly worried and could hardly sleep for anxiety.

"Bless your heart, my dear," I said, "is THAT all?"

I thought you had quarreled with John. How long have you been married? Eight months? And this is the first time John has felt that way? Well, my dear, you're lucky. Most folks men have those spasms oftener than that."

I doubt it.

If that young bride had ever been a business woman herself I don't think she would have felt quite so worried. Of course she would have felt some anxieties, no one could help that. But she would have known that it was nine chances to one that her husband saw things blacker than they were, and that in a few days he would be wondering what had troubled him so much.

It seems to be a queer quirk in most of us that we alternately consider ourselves absolutely indispensable, and wonder how soon we are going to be fired.

I know myself that I alternate between wondering why I am paid anything and why I am not paid twice as much as I am.

Of course sometimes one's promotions of trouble prove right, but ninety-nine times out of one hundred, the cloud rolls by and proves to have been nothing but the vapor of our own imaginings, or at most a little temporary shower cloud.

I well remember one young newspaper reporter, who had been telling me for a week that he felt sure he was going to be fired. Just as he was making one of these gloomy prognostications a summons came for him to go to the editor's office. "There, I told you so," he said. The editor commended him for his excellent work and raised his pay.

I was talking over the whole matter with a very sensible and keen-minded young man the other day. There had been revolutionary changes of management in his office, and he certainly had some reason to fear for his head. He said so much, and then he squared his shoulders and declared cheerfully, "But I'm not worrying about it. They can take away my position but they can't take away my health or my brains and ability."

Isn't that a fine point of view?

And isn't it the right one?

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: If a father-in-law is dead, is it right for a daughter-in-law to wear all deep black, or is the waist enough, and how long must you wear it?

BLACK EYES.
It is not necessary to wear full mourning for a father-in-law, but in deference to your husband's feelings it would be well to wear very quiet tones for a few months.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Three years ago a young man whom I met in the town where I spent my vacations, asked me to write to him. I did. He always answered. Two years ago we had a quarrel over a trifle—mostly my fault. At my suggestion we made up. Then he asked me to promise to be faithful to him. I really and truly like him and I promised, thinking he meant this as an engagement.

I invited him to come and see me and since then he has visited at my home three times, staying a week each time. I entertained him in my home with the permission of my mother, thinking to save him hotel expenses, as I knew he was not a millionaire. He never spoke plainly of marriage, but hinted at different times.

Now he is treating me "rotten." He told me he thought we had better drop it all. He told me he drank (I know that) and had been lying to me. I think he just wants to be rid of me. But my mother can't get over the fact that he came here and stayed with us. I would never have thought he would place me in such an embarrassing position. He talks around his town, saying things that are not true.

I am only a quiet respectable working girl. I have a good reputation and character above everything and I feel terrible to have people make remarks where there is no occasion for them—only that he stayed here and I am heartily ashamed of that fact now. He is 23. I am 24.

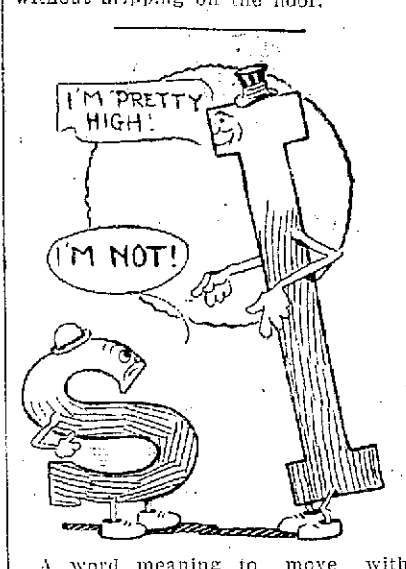

MISS E.

My dear girl, the man is a cad and you were well rid of him. Simply tell your friends that you have broken any engagement that existed between you. That is all you need to say. His own words and actions will condemn him.

Buttermilk for Babies.

(The following may be news to most mothers, but doctors declare that buttermilk may be digested by a baby where other food fails. It is best to get the doctor's advice concerning the formula for each baby.)

Do mothers know that buttermilk is the very best artificial food for babies?

Am raising my tenth baby (nearly all bottle babies) on this new-old food and can say that it is better than any commercial food I ever tried.

Two other babies in this vicinity are being successfully raised on it.

The necessary churning to produce butter thoroughly digests it, and fermentation already having taken place renders it harmless and nourishing at the same time.

Here is the formula:

To one quart buttermilk add 10 teaspoonfuls sugar, and three teaspoonfuls flour. Mix smooth and let come to a boil. Cool and give to baby like any other food.

Any baby has never known any other food and is as healthy a child as one could wish.

Leftover Fruits.

To use left over bits of canned fruits, mix fruits and press through a sieve. To each pint allow half a package of gelatin soaked until soft in one-fourth cup of cold water, then add fruit and juice, enough sugar to make it sufficiently sweet to suit. Juice of one lemon.

Set over the fire to heat. Stir until gelatin is entirely dissolved, then place the hot liquid in a fancy mold or a common bowl set where it will become chilled and firm. When ready to serve dip the dish a second into hot water, invert on a dish and the jelly will slip out.

Serve with whipped cream, plain cream or milk flavored with orange extract and sweetened; or use a boiled custard sauce, having it very cold.

A sponge may be formed, if liked. Take one cup raisins, one cup sugar, one egg, one cracker and juice and grated rind of a lemon. Chop the raisins, add sugar, egg, cracker finely rolled, and both lemon juice and rind.

Roll pastry till very thin and cut into squares; place a spoonful of filling in center, gather up the edges of the pastry over the filling, press firmly together and bake.

For Country Housewife.

To Clear Cistern Water From Coal Dust—For 30 barrels of water get a pound of borax and a pound of alum, put in cistern at night and in the morning the water will be as clear and soft as anyone could wish.

To Season Sausage.—For 20 pounds meat, eight ounces salt, two ounces pepper and one ounce sage.

To Cure Cholera.—Two pounds Spanish-honey, four ounces capicum, four ounces black antimony. To one gallon of water, one teaspoonful. To one gallon of water, one table spoonful.

BRIDGE PARTY, GIVEN FOR CHICAGO GUEST

Mrs. Frank Blodgett entertained a number of ladies at her home Saturday afternoon in honor of her guest, Mrs. William G. Wheeler of Chicago. Bridge was the afternoon's diversion and the ladies were served a dainty luncheon before departing.

When the Head is Sore.

I will walk abroad; old griefs shall be forgotten today; for the air is cool and still, and the hills are high and stretch away to heaven; and with the dew I can wash the fever from my forehead; and then I shall be unhappy no longer.—Thomas de Quincey.

BISHOP IS SPEAKER AT HOME GATHERING

DR. G. M. MATTHEWS OF CHICAGO
GIVES TWO ADDRESSES AT UNITED BRETHREN
CHURCH.

CHURCH NEEDS VISION

Plea Made For Greater Sympathy on Part of Church For Those in Distress—Lesson of Transfiguration.

Bishop G. M. Matthews D. D. of Chicago gave two addresses at the United Brethren church Sunday on the occasion of their annual home coming. Both morning and evening services were well attended and several important matters relative to the financial condition of the parish were considered. Rev. Roberts announced last evening that some $1,200 had been subscribed during the day toward the payment of the church debt and that the trustees were planning to make arrangements for the settlement of the entire amount with a few weeks.

Dr. Matthews in his address last evening based his remarks on the account of Christ's transfiguration as found in Matthew's gospel. "Every great spiritual leader must have a mountain-top experience," said the bishop. "This was the case with Abraham, Jacob, Moses, Isaiah and the patriarchs of old, and it is so with the teachers of the gospel today."

The speaker pointed out that the import of the transfiguration was twofold, first in its strengthening of Christ for his journey to Jerusalem and the anguish on the cross, and second in its great lessons to the disciples. Mr. Matthews touched on the fact that Christ took but three of the twelve followers with him on the mount. There was no favoritism shown in this act he claimed but it was merely the purpose to cut the pride and envy of the men who were becoming self-righteous.

"In this vision the disciples gained a glimpse for the first time of the inherent power and glory of Christ. They had suffered with him humiliation and scorn and they were now ready for a vision of real divinity of their master. The church today needs a vision of the supernaturalness of Jesus Christ. If faith in the spirituality of Christ is on the wane the loss to the church is immeasurable."

In this vision the disciples learned the true significance of Christ's redemptive love, said Dr. Matthews. They saw what great sacrifice he had made and realized what he meant when he said that he would die for the sins of humanity.

The great lesson of the transfiguration according to the speaker was the manifestation of the profound sympathy of Christ. The three disciples prostrate at the sight which they had witnessed, were frightened and Christ turned and touched them urging them not to be afraid. It was a beautiful picture of his compassion and understanding of human feelings. It is a vision which the church needs today. There is a great and pressing demand for a touch of sympathy for struggling, sorrowing, toiling humanity. It takes a great man to stoop down to the aid and assistance of others. The speaker recalled numerous instances of the compassion and humility of Christ and his ever ready disposition to serve.

The transfiguration gives further proof of Christ's saving power and of the greatness of salvation. In closing his remarks Dr. Matthews declared that there were two besetting perils for the church today: One that the church is too willing to depend on the mechanical, and the other is the unbelief which comes from doubt. It takes more than a fine edifice and a large and faithful congregation to make a successful church, and it needs an abiding faith in the teachings of Christ to survive the insinuations of liberalism and the attacks of cultism.

SUSPENDERS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

SUSPENDERS are a providential arrangement which permit men to go about in public with a feeling of perfect security. Whenever you attend a social function and observe a pained look come over the face of a male guest, you may be sure that he has either imbibed too much of the menu or parted with a suspender button.

Suspenders never came into general use until the invention of ray pants. They sprang into immediate popularity and have been worn off and on ever since. Men who are to be obliged to hold up their pants with a safety pin or a wire nail took up with the new idea at once, and came to the supper table in their shirt sleeves, wearing a proud, self-satisfied look and a new pair of striped suspenders.

Suspenders are made of cloth stretched over rubber bands, which become exhausted after being worn for a few weeks and allow a pair of shapely pants to drop languorously toward the son-of-a-west. This is what causes so many men to go about in pants which fit like a 36x4 line on a go cart.

Suspenders are fitted over buttons which have the habit of letting go in the middle of a round dance. Nobody ever heard of a suspender button coming off within four miles of a needle and thread. This kind of a button always falls on a hardwood floor and rolls around in a circle at the precise moment when the wearer is trying to appear wholly at ease.

Of late years fashion has proscribed a very neat substitute for suspenders, in the form of the leather belt, which causes lean men to look like an hour glass. It is a hazardous proceeding for a thin man to rely upon a belt, and any attempt to force this innovation upon attenuated citizens should be rebuked by act of congress. The belt is all right for stout parties who have one hip on each side, but it is a positive insult to people with a waist line like a wasp. On this account, suspenders will be worn long after the leather belt has become a pensive memory.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Dear Editor: In your editorial column in the Tuesday issue you close your comment on the Wesleyan university professor who indulged in some unique recommendations to the church with these words: "The trend of the times is away from the Church." Such a statement ought not to be made without facts and figures to substantiate the statement. If true, there ought to be some data to verify the accuracy of the statement. If we dip into the history we find that same statement reiterated in every generation. The cry of a deep and broad chasm between the masses and the church is not a new one. Like the phoenix bird out of the ashes it rises out of some frightened mind to repeat the old Jeremiah cry of a sad lapse in church devotion.

Bishop Latimer faced a locked church where he had been advertised to preach and on the steps one villager saying, "Sir this a busy day with us. We cannot hear you, it is Robin Hood's day. The parish are gone abroad to gather for Robin Hood. I pray you hinder them not." London was never so ill as it is now. Cried Latimer in 1548. Calvin said: "The future appeals me, I dare not think of it. Unless the Lord descends from heaven barbarism will engulf us." Some are longing for "the good old times." There never have been any good old times. An omniscient writer in one of our recent magazines declares: "The man discouraged now about the church would have been crushed to heart-break in the sixteenth century and would have been driven insane in the eighteenth."

A little investigation of the trend makes a man an optimist and not a pessimist as to the future of the church. We have no data at hand to compare Janesville of today with the Janesville of twenty-five years ago or ten years ago but we have a conviction that more people attend one or more services of the church now than twenty-five or ten years ago in proportion to the population of the city, notwithstanding the counter-attractions in the entertainments in the city, and facilities of transportation to parks and resorts out of the city.

If it could be shown that the attendance in Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churches had declined it would prove nothing. The waves of the ocean in localities may be receding while the tide that sweeps the whole ocean may be rising. What are the intimations of the rising tide?

A tramp through the city of the West finds the churches packed to the doors at all ordinary services—the number in some churches reaching into the thousands. New York City which has been used repeatedly to illustrate church conditions, reports a gain in church attendance. The following item of news has recently been published to the world:

"It has been estimated that the attendance upon the churches in New York during the past year has been larger than ever before." We grant that an "estimate" proves nothing. The statistics of the churches of the United States for 1912 have just come to my desk.

What do they show? Grand total of communicants for 1911—36,695,488. For 1912—36,675,537. A gain in one year of 579,852. The statistics for 1899 are also before me. The net gain over the previous year was 348,230.

What is the trend? Last week the Dailies were reporting a revival meeting at Columbus, Ohio.

Thousands, twenty thousand reported (doubtless an estimate) by the daily press sought admission to the tabernacle to hear the Gospel—multitudes stood in line at 4:30 a. m. for the doors to open, the services not to begin till some hours later. Such eagerness to hear the "old-time message" was perhaps not more intense in the palmy days of Moody.

The announcement of Gypsy Smith to preach will bring a crowd too great for any church in America. "Say not thou what the cause that the former days were better than these? For thou dost not inquire wisely concerning this."

ROCK PRAIRIE

Rock Prairie, Feb. 10.—Owing to the cold weather, the attendance at the U. P. church last Wednesday evening was not very large, though the entertainment by Mr. Zwickey was excellent. The date of the lecture on rural life in Scotland by Dr. A. S. Alexander was announced as Friday, March 7.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McLay spent a part of last week in Chicago. While there, they attended the auto show and heard Harry Lauder.

The family of Mrs. McGowan have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Mr. Daland preached at the U. P. church last Sunday. Rev. Wallace McGowan will preach next Sunday. On Tuesday, Feb. 11, at one o'clock, Rev. W. J. Buchanan will hold a congregational meeting at the church to moderate a formal call to Rev. C. Y. Love of Des Moines.

Mrs. Jas. Menzies is visiting in Chicago.

John Powell called on friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Bert Austin entertained several friends at a dinner last Saturday night.

J. Z. McLay attended the stock show in Madison last Thursday and Friday. McLay Bros. exhibited two horses at the show.

Miss Jessie Menzies spent the mid-year vacation at home from the university.

A few from here attended the home talent entertainment at Emerald Grove last Friday evening, and pronounced it very good.

That "SKUNKY" Taste
in Some Beers
is caused by the action of Light.

This is the deliberate opinion of no less an authority than Philip Dreesbach, German expert and scientist in the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology. He says:

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable, so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive skunk-like odor. Beer so affected is offensive to the palate of most consumers, and there is probably nothing that will influence them more against any brand of bottled beer than to have once tasted beer possessing this 'light taste' to a marked degree. The presence of this defect, however, is not always the bottle's fault, as the consumer himself very often lets the beer stand in the light. But the consequences must usually be borne by the bottler."

Schlitz is sold in Brown Bottles to protect its purity from the brewery to your glass.

In our brewery we spend more in purity—in time, in skill and in money—than any other cost.

Why don't you, too, demand the pure beer—Schlitz in Brown Bottles?

CHAPTER IV.

Mr. Van Camp Makes a Call.

Aleck Van Camp turned from the clerk's desk, rather relieved to find that Hambleton had not yet made his appearance. Aleck had an errand on his mind, and he reflected that Jim was apt to be impetuous and reluctant to await another man's convenience; at least, Jim wouldn't perceive that another man's convenience needed to be waited for; and Aleck had no mind to announce this errand from the house-tops. It was not a business that pertained, directly, either to the Sea Gull or to the coming cruise.

He made an uncommonly careful toilet, discarding two neckties before the operation was finished. When all was done the cravat presented a stuffed and warped appearance which was not at all satisfying, even to Aleck's uncritical eye; but the tie was the last of his supply and was, perhaps, slightly better than none at all.

Dinner at the club was usually a dull affair, and to Mr. Van Camp, on this Monday night, it seemed more stupid than ever. The club had been organized in the spirit of the English clubs, with the unwritten law of absolute and inviolable privacy for the individual. No wild or woolly manners ever entered those decorous precincts. No slapping on the shoulder, no half-fellow greetings, no chance dinner companionship ever dispelled the awful penumbra of privacy that surrounded even the humblest member. A man's eating and drinking, his coming or going, his living or dying, were matters only for club statistics, not for personal inquiry or notice.

The result of this habitual attitude on the part of the members of the club and its servants was an atmosphere in which a catatonic fit would scarcely warrant unofficial interference; much less would merely lawless or absent-minded behavior attract attention. That was the function of the club—to provide sanctuary for personal whims and idiosyncrasies; of course, always within the boundaries of the code.

On the evening in question Mr. Van Camp did not actually become silly, but his manner lacked the poise and seriousness which sophisticated men are wont to bring to the important event of the day. He was as near being nervous as a Scotch-American Van Camp could be; and at the same time an unwonted flow of life and warmth in his cool veins. He went so far as to make a remark to the waiter which he meant for an affable joke, and then wanted to kick the fellow for taking it so solemnly.

"You mind yourself, George, or they'll make you about of this monastery yet!" said Aleck, as George helped him on with his evening coat.

"Yes, sir, thank you, sir," said George.

He left word at the office that in case any one called he was to be informed that Mr. Van Camp would return to the club for the night; then, in his silk hat and generally shining toes, he set forth to make a call. He was no stranger to New York, and usually he took his calls as they came, with a matter-of-fact nonchalance. He would be as much at home on his second day in London as he had ever been in Lynn; or he would go from a friend's week-end house-party, where the habits of a Sybarite were forced on him, to a camp in the woods and pilot-bread fare, with an equal smoothness of temper and enjoyment. Since luxury made no impression on him, and hardship never blunted his own ideals of politeness or pleasure, no one ever knew which life he preferred.

Choosing to walk fifteen or twenty squares to the Archangel apartment house, his destination, Van Camp looked about him, on this night of his arrival, with slightly quickened perceptions. He cast a mildly appreciative eye toward the picture disclosed here and there by the glancing lights, the chiaroscuro of the intersecting streets, the constantly changing vistas. For an unimpressible man, he was rather wrought upon. Nevertheless, he entered the charming apartment whither he was bound with the detached and composed manner which society regards as becoming. A maid with a foreign accent greeted him; Yes, Mademoiselle Reynier was at home; Mr. Van Camp would find her in the drawing-room.

The stiff and unrelaxed manner with which Mr. Van Camp bowed to Miss Reynier a moment later was not at all indicative of the fairly respectable fever within his Scotch breast. Miss Reynier herself was pretty enough to cause quickened pulses. She was of noble height, evidently a woman of the world. She gave Mr. Van Camp her hand in a greeting mingled of European daintiness and American frankness. Her vitality and abounding interest in life were manifest.

"Ah, but you are very late. This is how you become smart all at once in your New York atmosphere! But pray be seated; and here are cigarettes, if you will. No? Very well; but tell me; has that amorphous gills-it-or-no, the branchial lamella—has it behaved itself and proved to be the avenue which shall lead you to fame?"

Mr. Van Camp stood silent through this flippant badinage, and calmly waited until Miss Reynier had settled herself. Then he thoughtfully turned the chair offered him so as to command a slightly better view of the corner where she sat, leaning against the old-rose cushions. Finally, taking his own time, he touched off her greeting with his precise drawl.

"I'm not smart, as you call it, even in New York, though I try to be." His eyes twinkled and his teeth gleamed in his wide smile. "If I were smart, I'd pass by your error in scientific nomenclature, but really I ought not to do it. If one can't be exact—"

"That's just what I say. If one can't be exact, why talk at all?" Miss Reynier caught it up with high glee. She had a foreign accent, and an occasional twist of words which proved her to be neither American nor Englishwoman. "That's my principle," she insisted. "Leave other people in undisturbed possession of their hobbies, especially in conversation, and don't say anything if you can't say what you mean. But then, you won't talk about your hobby; and if I have no one to inform me, how can I be exact? But I'm the meekest person alive! I'm so ready to learn."

Mr. Van Camp surveyed first the bantering, alluring eyes, then turned his gaze upon the sofa luxuries about them.

"Are you ready to turn this bijou dream into a laboratory smelling of alcohol and fish? Are you willing to spend hours wading in mudbanks after specimens, or scratching in the sand under the broiling sun? Science does not consult comfort."

Miss Reynier's expression of quizzical teasing changed to one of rather thoughtful inquiry, as if she were estimating the man behind the scientist. Van Camp was one of the lean, angular type, like Jim Hambleton. He was also every manly and wholesome, but even in his conventional evening clothes there was something about him that was unconventional—a protesting, untamed element of character that resisted all rules except those prescribed by itself. He puzzled her before; but if she made fun of his hobbies, she had no mind to make fun of the man himself. A cheerful, intelligent smile finally ended her contemptuous moment.

"Oh, no; no digging in the sand for me. I'll take what science I get in another way—put up in predigested packages or bottled—any way but the fishy way. But please don't give me up. You shed a good deal of light on my mental darkness last winter in Egypt, and maybe I can improve still more." She suddenly turned with friendly, confidential manner toward Aleck, not waiting for replies to her remarks. "It's good to see you again! And I like it here better than in Egypt, don't you? Don't you think this apartment jolly?"

The shaded lamps made a pretty light over Miss Reynier's cream-colored silk flounces, over the delicate lace on her waist, over her glossy dark hair and spirited face. As Aleck contemplated that face, with its eager yet modest and womanly gaze, and the noble outline of her figure, he thought, with an unwonted flowering of imagination, that she was not unlike the Diana of classic days. "A domestic Diana," he added in his mind. "She may love the woods and freedom, but she will always return to the hearth."

Aleck said: "If you will permit me, Miss Reynier, I would like to inform you at once of the immediate object of my visit here. You must be well aware—" At this point Mr. Van Camp, who, true to his nature, was looking squarely in the face of his companion, of necessity allowed himself to be interrupted by Miss Reynier's lifted hand. She was looking beyond her visitor through the drawing-room door.

"Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Lloyd-Jones," announced the servant.

As Miss Reynier swept forward with outstretched hand to greet the newcomers, Van Camp fixed his eyes on his hostess with a mingled expression of masculine rage and submission. Whether he thought her too cordial toward the other men or too cool toward himself, was not apparent. Presently he, too, was shaking hands with the visitors, who were evidently old friends of the house. Madame Reynier, the aunt of mademoiselle, was summoned, and Van Camp was introduced to a sofa with Lloyd-Jones, who was just in from the West. Aleck found himself listening to an interminable talk about copper veins and silver veins, a new kind of assaying instrument, and the good luck attendant upon the opening of Lloyd-Jones' new mine, the Liza Lu.

Aleck was the essence of courtesy to everything except sham, and was able to indicate a mild interest in Mr. Lloyd-Jones' mining affairs. It was sufficient. Lloyd-Jones turned aside on his end of the sofa, spread out plump, gesticulating hands, and poured upon him an eloquent torrent of fact, speculation and high-spirited enthusiasm concerning Idaho in general and the future of the Liza Lu in particular. More than that, by and by his cheerful, half-impudent manner threatened to turn poetic.

"It's great, living in the open out there," he went on, by this time including the whole company in his exordium. "You ride or tramp, or dig rock all day; and at night you lie down under the clear stars, thankful for your blanket and your rock-bed and your camp-fire; and more than thankful if there's a bit of running water near by. It's a great life!"

Miss Reynier listened to him with eyes that were alternately puzzled and appreciative. It was a discourse that would have seemed to her much more natural coming from Aleck Van Camp; but then, Mr. Van Camp really did the things that sort of thing—and he rarely talked about it. It had probably been Mr. Lloyd-Jones' first essay in the world out of reach of his waist and a club cocktail; and he was consequently impressed with his achievement. It was evident that Miss Reynier and the amateur miner were on friendly terms, though Aleck had not seen or heard of him before. He had hobnobbed with Mr. Chamberlain in London and on more than one scientific jaunt. The slightest flicker of jealous resentment gleamed in Aleck's eyes, but his speech was as slow and precise as ever.

"I was just trying to convince Miss Reynier that outdoor life has its peculiar joys," he said. "I was even now suggesting that she should dig, though not for silver. Does Mr. Lloyd-Jones' lure seem more alluring than my little wriggly beasts, Miss Reynier?"

If Aleck meant this speech for a trap to force the young woman to indicate a preference, the trick failed, as it deserved to fail. Miss Reynier was able to play a waiting game.

"I couldn't endure either your mines or your mudpuddles. You are both absurd, and I don't understand how you ever get recruits for your hobbies. But come over and see this new engraving, Mr. Jones; it's an old-fashioned picture of your beloved Rhine."

Aleck, thus liberated from Mr. Lloyd-Jones and his mines, made his way across the room to Madame Reynier. The cunning of old Adam was in his eye, but otherwise he was the picture of deferential innocence. Madame Reynier loved Aleck, with his inoffensive Americanisms and un-failing kindness; and with her friends she was frankness itself. With two men in Miss Reynier's hands for entertainment, it seemed to Aleck unlikely that either one could make any alarming progress. Besides, he was glad of a tete-a-tete with the chap-erone.

Madame Reynier was a tall, straight woman, elderly, dressed entirely in black, with gaunt, aristocratic features and great directness of speech. She had the fine kind of hauteur which forbids persons of this type ever to speak of money, of disease, of scandal, or of too intimate personalities; in Madame Reynier's case it also restrained her from every sort of exaggerated speech. She spoke English with some difficulty and preferred French.

Van Camp seated himself on a spindle-legged, gilt chair by Madame Reynier's side, and begged to know how they were enduring the New York climate, which had formerly proved intolerable to Madame Reynier. As he seated himself she stretched out saving hands.

"I can endure the climate, thank you; but I can't endure to see your life endangered on that silly chair, my dear Mr. Van Camp. There—thank you." And when he was seated in a solid mahogany, he was rewarded with Madame Reynier's confidential chat. They had returned to their New York apartment in the midst of the summer season, she said, "for professional advice."

She and her niece—like the city and never minded the heat. Melanie, her aunt explained, had been enabled to see several old friends, and for her own part, she liked home at any time of the year better than the most comfortable of hotels.

"This is quite like home," she added, "even though we are really exiles." Aleck ventured to hope that the "professional advice" had not meant serious trouble of any sort.

"A slight indisposition only."

"And are you, much better now?" Aleck inquired solicitously.

"Oh, it wasn't I; it was Melanie," Madame smiled. "I became my own physician many years ago, and now I never see a doctor except when we ask one to dine. But youth has no such advantage." Madame fairly beamed with benevolence while explaining one of her pet idiosyncrasies. Before Aleck could make any headway in gleaming information concerning her own and Melanie's movements, as he was shamefully trying to do, Lloyd-Jones had persuaded Miss Reynier to sing.

"Some of those quaint old things, please," he was saying; and Aleck wondered if he never would hang himself with his own rope. But Lloyd-Jones' cheerful voice went on: (To be continued.)

DINNER STORIES

They had been talking as they walked. She had remarked pathetically: "Oh, it must be terrible to a man to be rejected by a woman!" "Indeed it must," was his response. Then, after a while, with sympathetic ingeniousness, she exclaimed: "It doesn't seem that I could ever have the heart to do it." And there came a silence between them as he thought it over.

An Irishman, landing in an English port, happened to jostle a dandy Frenchman. The Frenchman, considering himself insulted, presented his card to the Irishman saying: "I am at your service, sir."

The astonished Irishman replied: "In that case, you'd better carry my luggage up to the hotel."

and cheer, then he slid all over town and the suburbs on his ear. Then for seven months, about, on a couch of pain he lay, and the language he put into the nurses' ears was, thus:

CARELESSNESS state underwent an awful shock, all because some trifling skate dropped a peeling on the walk. Some one dropped some carpet tacks on a quiet thoroughfare where the autos make their tracks when the days are bright and fair; then a load of idle rich bear the raucous pitch of their voices as they swore. Sorrow then succeeded of mirth in the twinkling of an eye, and the men folks pawed the earth, and the girls sat down to cry. Some one threw a brick at a passing butterfly, and it made a neighbor sick, for it hit him in the eye. Some one's doing careless things every minute of the year, and his folly always brings grief to some poor sufferer near; as I bear the earnest knocks I have got a broken jaw, caused by some one throwing rocks, and there ought to be a law.

At Least the Majority. "I am an opportunist," said a defendant in the New York supreme court. "I make money when I can." Come to think of it, the world seems to be populated exclusively by opportunists.

Willing to have his neighbors think he was a fine musician, Brown installed a mechanical piano near a front window of his home, where he spent hours each day pedaling out melodies. "Your father is a great piano player, isn't he?" one of the neighbors remarked to Brown's boy, William, one afternoon. "Yes," replied William, "but it makes his feet awful sore."

Senator Yardman, so the story goes, once rented a plot of several acres to one of his black neighbors. The land was to be planted in corn, and the senator, then ex-governor, was to receive one-fourth. The corn was duly harvested, but the senator did not receive his fourth. Meeting the negro one day he said:

"Look here, Sam, have you harvested your corn?"

"Yes, sah, boss, long 'go."

"Well, wasn't I to get a fourth?"

"Yes, sah, boss, dat's de tuth, but dar wasn't no t'oth. There was jes' three loads, and dey was mine."

The taxicab driver was about to receive his sentence. "Prisoner," said the judge, "I'm satisfied there is no reasonable doubt of your guilt. The evidence shows that you drove the cab for two hours, then drove him to a secluded place, strangled him and stole his watch. Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced?"

"Yes, your honor."

"What is it?"

"I'd like to know, your honor, who is going to pay the cab hire?"

Weakness may be caused by a run-down condition, malassimilation of food, lack of iron in the blood or a result of sickness.

Whatever the cause, we want to say to every person who needs strength, you need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, as it is the most efficient strength created we have in our store.

A case has just come to our attention from West Baden, Ind. A beautiful young lady was a complete wreck, run-down, worn out, and nervous, so she had to spend one-third of her time in bed. Nothing which was given her did any good until Vinol was recommended by her druggist; which she says did her more good than all the medicine she ever took in her life put together, as it built her up so she is now strong, well and active.

It is the medicinal elements of the cod's livers contained in Vinol aided by the blood-making and strengthening properties of tonic iron which makes it so successful and we will return your money if it does not help you. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistence and Nature's assistance, with nasty sickening cathartics.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets of the bowels; their action is gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

Stop That Cough In A Minute

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by peruviana from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. Pennington, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River St.
